

Inaugural Editorial: Forum for Management

Juliansyah Noor^{1,*}, Editor-in-Chief

Department of Management, La Tansa Mashiro University, Indonesia

* Corresponding Author: Juliansyah Noor, profjul.noor@gmail.com

It is a great honor to introduce the very first issue of the Forum for Management.

This new platform has been created to bring together ideas, research, and experiences from across the world of management. Our goal is to provide a space where academics, professionals, students, and thought leaders can share knowledge, learn from one another, and contribute to the future of management.

In today's fast-changing world, good management is more important than ever. Organizations face new challenges—from technology and innovation to sustainability and global competition. To meet these challenges, we need fresh thinking, open dialogue, and strong connections between theory and practice.

The Forum for Management aims to:

- Share useful and timely research,
- Encourage new ideas and innovation,
- Support ethical and effective leadership.

This first issue includes a variety of articles that reflect the wide scope of management—from strategy and leadership to people, systems, and change. We hope you find the content valuable, engaging, and thought-provoking.

I would like to thank our editorial team, contributors, reviewers, and supporters for making this launch possible. And to our readers: thank you for joining us at the beginning of this exciting journey. We look forward to growing with you.

Copyright ©2025 The Author(s)

Open Access. This article is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License(<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/>), which permits use, sharing, adaptation, distribution and reproduction in any medium or format, as long as you give appropriate credit to the original author(s) and the source, provide a link to the Creative Commons licence, and indicate if changes were made.